

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system is described for encryption and decryption of digital data prior to the digital data entering the memory of a digital device by generating a key, sub-key and combining the sub-key with mixed digital data, where the encryption and decryption occurs between the memory controller and the input output register.